

EasyPAY No Bills • No Hassles
No Need to Renew

a convenient and secure way to pay for Gettysburg Times home delivery.

Get the news now on your mobile device.
Check us out.

Search the Site: Enter Keywords

HOME NEWS SPORTS FEATURES OBITUARIES CLASSIFIEDS SUBSCRIBE ARCHIVES PHOTOS NIE RESOURCES VIDEOS

ARCHIVES > NEWS > LOCAL

Print | E-mail | Comment (No comments posted.) | Rate | Text Size

Chamber honors Hundredfold Farm

HONORED - The Environmental Stewardship Award was presented to Hundredfold Farm during the general membership breakfast of the Gettysburg Adams Chamber of Commerce on Friday. Pictured from left, are: Carrie Stuart, president of the chamber; Skip Strayer, field rep. for Sen. Rich Alloway; Bill Hartzell, representing Hundredfold Farm; Charles Bennett, manager of environmental affairs for Knouse Foods, who presented the award; and Steve Rasmussen, CEO/General Manager of Adams Electric Cooperative Inc., who nominated them for the award.

BY MARK WALTERS
Times Staff Writer

Published: Saturday, March 13, 2010 4:40 AM EST

Bill Hartzell, co-founder of the Hundredfold Farm Cohousing Community, accepted the 2009 Environmental Stewardship Award Friday morning.

The award was presented by the Gettysburg Adams Chamber of Commerce at its General Membership Breakfast at the Gettysburg Fire Hall.

Environmental stewardship is something the community at the Hundredfold Farm has been working at for more than a decade.

"This means the world," Hartzell said after accepting his award and shaking hands with various attendees. "It truly is a grassroots organization. Local people...started this, and after 12 years to have some neighbors recognize what we've done up there, it feels good."

Located on 1400 Evergreen Way in Orrtanna, the Hundredfold Farm has made strides in using solar power to conserve energy as well as various other strategies in recycling and conserving water.

"We're not only conserving power, we're also generating new power," Hartzell said of the 14 houses that are clustered on three of the farm's 80 total acres.

None of the houses use well water for outside irrigating and all of the houses contain rainwater collection systems.

The community processes its own wastewater on site. One-third of the water processed is pumped back to the homes for reuse, according to Hartzell.

"The national average for water usage is 75 gallons per person, per day. For us, it's less than 25 gallons per person, per day and of that 25, a good half of that

Nana's Naughty Knickers Click For Tickets

Rainbow Theatre

e-Edition
Same format as our print edition - online!

STRESSER OUT

The struggles and conflicts of our teens

BRIDAL Info

Today's Weather

Gettysburg, PA
57°F
forecast...

Laslow's Pharmacy
The Pharmacy All About Your Health
Offering delivery to home or office!

SNOW SCAN

is recycled water," Hartzell said.

Prior to announcing Hundredfold Farms as the recipient of the award, Charlie Bennett of Knouse Foods Cooperative praised the small community for its vast efforts to encompass many of the tenants considered for the award.

Nominees were judged based on several categories such as energy and water conservation, recycling, reducing of pollution, or taking on an educational program on environmental protection.

"This year's winner of the chamber's environmental stewardship award could not be squeezed into any one category," Bennett said. "That is unless we create a broad new one like sustainable living."

"This group has created a living example of sustainable community living benefitting the environment in almost all of the categories listed on the application."

Hartzell said that the original intent of this project was to maintain a farm in Adams County.

"The retirement plan for a lot of farmers is sell the farm and turn it into a housing development," Hartzell said. "So we're able to demonstrate how you can create some housing and keep a farm going."

For more information about the Hundredfold Farm go to www.hundredfoldfarm.org.

« Previous Article

Casino promoter touts opportunities for local businesses

Next Article »

Today's Headlines

Article Rating

Current Rating: 0 of 0 votes!

Rate File:

Reader Comments

The following are comments from the readers. In no way do they represent the view of gettysburgtimes.com.

Submit a Comment

We encourage your feedback and dialog, all comments will be reviewed by our Web staff before appearing on the Web site. Comments should be limited to 100 words or less.

Name:

Email:

(optional)

Comments:

Image Verification: (Case sensitive)

Post Comment

Return to: Local - | Home - | Top of Page ^

"Tweet" Selection of Bird Food, Feeders & Houses for your Feathered Friends!

See our Wild Bird Supply Display!

One-Stop Shop

107 N. Washington St.
Gettysburg, PA
(717) 334-1108

Buy These Photos Here!

3/15/2010

3/14/2010

3/14/2010

3/14/2010

3/14/2010